

THE HISTORIANS

A Game About History Making

1 – 5 PLAYERS · 45 – 90 MINUTES · AGES 16+ · BGG weight 3.0

Congratulations on earning your PhD! You're on your way to becoming a prestigious historian! Get cracking on that book before you go up for tenure. The archive is calling your name...

The Historians is a competitive argument-building game where players race to become history's most prestigious scholar. Draw primary sources, present compelling historical arguments to other players, climb the academic ranks, and win awards.

YOUR WORKSPACE

Player Board

PEER REVIEW

This is what the writer sees.

This is what the reviewer sees.

ABOUT THE GAME

Professional Upgrades: As the game progresses, you can upgrade your study to make researching, writing, and networking easier.

Scholarly Debate: The publishing mechanic allows you to add primary sources to your argument and reference already published work in scholarly conversation.

Real Peer Review: Submit your manuscript and let the table vote to Approve or Revise & Resubmit the manuscript.

Hidden Information: The writer sees only the source content, and the reviewers see only the tagging system. Both need to come together and determine if the argument is viable.

Modular Archive: The game can be expanded for any historical theme/era by simply switching out the archive deck.

Real Insight into the Profession: Designed by a historian to mimic the experience of conducting research and working in archives.

END-OF-GAME AWARDS

- Francis Parkman Award — +15 most evidence in one publication
- Arnold J. Toynbee Award — +15 for most publications overall
- Michael Foucault Award — +10 for the most citations received
- Alice Loxton Award — +10 player first player to publish a book

HISTORICAL DECKS

- The Early American Revolution — 1701 – 1775
- The Montgomery Bus Boycott — 1932 – 1960 (In Development)
- Three Cold War Decks (Early, Middle & Late) (In Development)
- Early U.S. History Deck — Pre-Contact – 1887 (In Development)
- Late U.S. History Deck — 1887 – 2001 (In Development)

DESIGNED BY

Dr. David Stephen Bennett

Historian specializing in US, Media, African American, and Science and Technology

PROJECT

game.thehistorians.org

Live build · Print-and-play available

STATUS

Seeking Publisher

Classroom-Tested · Ready for licensing

"So deeply interesting does this play... become, that an Indian will stake first his gun; next his steel-traps; then his implements of war; then his clothing; and lastly, his tobacco and pipe." — George Copway (Kahgegahbowh), The Traditional History and Characteristic Sketches of the Ojibway Nation, 1850